

THE SAFETY OF THE BRIDGE

MR. WREN MAKING DISCLOSURES CONT.

A Discovery Made While the Assemblyman was a Reporter—The Fact Denied and the Reporter Discharged—Resolutions—Bills.

ATLANTA, Feb. 11.—Mr. Wren called up this morning his resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of experts to report fully respecting the safety of the Brooklyn Bridge after a thorough examination. Mr. Wren said that the disclosures respecting the defective wire that was used in the cables justified such an examination before any appropriation was voted by this Legislature. There were many people in Brooklyn who were doubtful about the safety, and there was a suspicion that there might be a disaster some time similar to that over the Tay. Mr. Wren intimated that he had little confidence in the reports of trustees, and said that he had personal reasons for his lack of confidence, and he proposed to state

At this announcement the House became very quiet. The slender form of Mr. Tallmadge was stroking his hair, looking at the clock, and though in meditation, Mr. Aylwer was so engrossed in his own thoughts that he was not aware of new members that usually crowd around the desk and even rose in his place to hear him speak. When a disclosure was made some time ago, while he was a reporter for a New York paper, that the Tribune had discovered one day that the dispatches from the telegraph office were not receivable. He saw this done, and after a careful investigation, wrote an account that was published in the Tribune. The editor of the paper, the trustees of the bridge demanded a retraction, and Mr. Tallmadge refused to do so. Mr. Wentz was suspended from the office, and Mr. Porter, although he offered to verify completely the statement, was not allowed to do so. His trading as it did not only the fact they denied, but also that they could use powerful influences to prevent the exposure of the fraud. Mr. Tallmadge is now making a report now from fair and complete sources.

Mr. Wren was so general in his accusation that Mr. Tallmadge did not deliver the speech he had intended to deliver, and that if he would, but simply moved to refer the resolution to the Committee on Ways and Means, and then to adjourn.

Why Arnold Mori Went to the States
YORKHAM, Jan. 26.—It is said that Arnold Mori, the famous English humorist to England, has been sent simply to relieve the administration of his presence here without appearing to disconcert him. Mori, who has been in the States for some time, has been advised by the Government to discontinue his subversive to the emperor, through the insurrection of the people, and to return to his native land. Mori appeared. His powerful personal influence prevents him from being sent to the States, and he is now continuing to research into. Although sent to a post of honor, Mori is not to be considered as a strict inaction, and is virtually a political exile.

Enoch Arden with Variations.
John Burton of Tuckahoe, a widower with one child, married some time ago a young woman with two children, whose husband had died here. They were married in the States, and the wife had a letter from her first husband, in which he wrote her to return to him, and to take care of his wife and children to his home. When Burton read the letter, and saw how well his wife was doing, he decided to return to his home, and to take care of his wife and children to his home.
